

YOUTH KILLED IN FORKLIFT ROLLOVER!

In a recent incident, a 17-year-old worker, Carlos M.*, died when a forklift rolled over onto him. He had just started to work for an agricultural supply store. He was hired to bag customer purchases. Carlos started work before he was trained. He overheard a customer ask for some hay bales, and went to get them with the forklift. The forklift tipped over when Carlos backed over a gutter.

WHAT WENT WRONG?

Carlos was too young to drive the forklift.

Carlos began to work before he was trained.

WHAT SHOULD BE DONE?

Never let workers less than 18 years old use power driven machinery. Put warning labels on the machinery that say it shouldn't be used by younger workers.

Make sure all workers receive safety training before they begin work.

The California Fatality Assessment and Control Evaluation (FACE) program has been investigating work-related deaths since 1992. The goal of the FACE program is to prevent these deaths by informing workers and managers of worksite hazards and how to avoid them.
