Equity Speaker Series

“We have all inherited this painful reality of socially constructed race. The inheritance is not our fault, but what we do with it is our legacy.”

--Dr. Tamu Nolfo

Senior Project Manager, Office of Health Equity

The Office of Health Equity (OHE), the Health in All Policies (HiAP) team, and the CDPH Government Alliance for Race and Equity (GARE) Cohort are pleased to continue our series on race and equity. This month, we welcome OHE’s own Tamu Nolfo, PhD, who will lead an informative discussion on “The Race Card: Difficult but Imperative Discussions about Race and Racism.” This informative discussion will explore the ways in which public health professionals can engage in courageous conversations to promote health for all Californians.

Dr. Nolfo serves as the senior project manager for the Office of Health Equity where she leads strategic planning of the statewide office’s activities in conjunction with the OHE Advisory Committee. She is a developmental psychologist and certified prevention specialist with two decades of experience in building grassroots coalitions, with a special emphasis in cultural competency, diversity and inclusion.

The Race Card: Difficult But Imperative Discussions About Race and Racism Featuring Dr. Tamu Nolfo
Thursday, October 27, 2016
3:00 to 4:30 p.m.
CDPH Auditorium
1500 Capitol Avenue, Sacramento
